NOTICE.

AMANDA CRUSEN

J. A. DALCHAW, ET AL.

In the Circuit Court of Cumberland county, Tennessee.

To J. A. DALCHAW, if living, if deceased, his unknown heirs at law, whose names, ages and places of residence are unknown, and upon diligent inquiry cannot be ascertained, all non-residents of Tennessee and James S. Garrison, Sheriff:

In this cause, it appearing from the petition, which is sworn to, that the defendants, J. A. Dalchaw, if living, if deceased his unknown heirs at law, whose names, ages and places of residence are unknown, and upon diligent inquiry cannot be ascertained, are all non-residents of the State of Tennessee; and that J. A. Dalchaw is sued if living, and if deceased, his respective unknown heirs at law are sued, all of whose names, ages and places of residence are unknown and upon and after diligent inquiry cannot be ascertained, and James S. Garrison, Sheriff and successor of himself as former Sheriff of said county is also sued, by petition in said court alleging that the tract of land described in said petition was, in a certain suit pending in said court in the year 1895, condemned and ordered sold as the property of said J. A. Dalchaw, and same was accordingly sold by former Sheriff to the plaintiff in this suit, and that in compliance to law said former Sheriff, on January 15, 1898, executed a deed to her, therefor, and that said deed through error or mistake had omitted therefrom certain calls in the courses and distances of the description of said land—specifying them, to the injury of the petitioner, and praying that said error or mistake be rectified by order of said court in this case, said tract of land is fully described in the petition in this cause and in the deed from Lillie Blair to J. A. Dalchaw dated January 30, 1894, and registered in Book N, page 546, in the Register's office of Cumberland county, Tennessee, to which reference is made for description to same.

They are, each and all of said defendants, above set forth and described, hereby required to appear before the Judge of the Circuit Court to be held for the County of Cumberland, at the court house in the town of Crossville, on the first Monday in October next, to answer the complaint of the petitioner, Amanda Crusen, or make defense thereto, within the time allowed by law, otherwise the petition will be taken as admitted, and the hearing proceeded with ex parte.

Application for a hearing on said petition will be made by petitioner at the October term of said court, 1919.

It is further ordered that this notice be published for three consecutive weeks in the Crossville Chronicle, a newspaper published in Cumberland County, Tennessee.

This August 4, 1919.
 Amanda Crusen, Petitioner,
 8-13-3t. by E. G. Tollett, Atty.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady.
Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prime, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child...I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time..."

"I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. about my taking Cardui. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved...before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

"You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it."

Is it Possible to Legislate Life and Brains?

Swift & Company is primarily an organization of men, not a collection of brick, mortar, and machinery.

Packing Plants, their equipment and usefulness are only outward symbols of the intelligence, life-long experience, and right purpose of the men who compose the organization and of those who direct it.

Will not Government direction of the packing industry, now contemplated by Congress, take over the empty husk of physical property and equipment and sacrifice the initiative, experience and devotion of these men, which is the life itself of the industry?

What legislation, what political adroitness could replace such life and brains, once driven out?

UNCLE TED BED-TIME STORIES

Uncle Ted Returns from the War and Is Warmly Welcomed Home

Jack and Ruth had waited many days for the return of their Uncle Ted from Washington where he had been stationed since arriving in the United States from France and the Great War. They had only seen him for a few minutes when he landed from a great boat in New York City.

There were hundreds of people there that day and Jack and Ruth who had never been in New York before, saw buildings "as tall as mountains and boats bigger than the biggest elephant ever." And then they had to go right back home because Uncle Ted was still a soldier in the American army and under orders which took him to Washington.

But now he was no longer a soldier and was coming home, so Jack and Ruth hoped, for a long time. They were at the window with their noses pressed tightly against the pane. Mother came into the room and whispered, "Uncle Ted is home!" Jack and Ruth ran for the door and such a welcome home as they gave their Uncle Ted. Jack jumped on his back and with Ruth pulling at Uncle's coat, he made his way into the old front room where, before he went to war, he had told the children all kinds of fairy stories until the Sand-man called them to bed.

But Jack had grown-up during the war. He was quite a little man now and was anxious to know all about what was going on in the world. Uncle Ted was his hero and from Uncle Ted he must learn all about what the world is doing now that the war is over and people everywhere are thinking of peace. And the big men in Washington who make the laws. Jack wanted to know right away what they were doing about the Peace Treaty which all the nations must sign and agree to before peace really exist.

"Uncle Ted," asked Jack after they were all seated, Jack on his hero's lap and Ruth at their feet, "why is the Senate in Washington taking so long to agree to the Peace Treaty? Germany has agreed and most all other nations so Daddy tells me."

"There are many reasons Jack," answered Uncle Ted. "First of all, when President Wilson signed the treaty in France as our representative, the treaty contained an agreement for a league of nations. This league of nations is, of course, still a part of the treaty. I haven't time tonight to tell you all about it. Just this much, though. If the United States agrees to the treaty with this plan to bring all the nations of the world together in a sort of club, it will mean that the United States will have to help fight the wars of many other countries."

"You mean," asked Jack, "that if Germany should fight England again, you would have to go back and fight whether you wanted to or not?"

"Not just that, Jack. I might or might not have to go but many American boys would have to go and many might be killed just because we had agreed to assist through this club plan for the many countries. For that reason many of the big Senators in Washington refuse to aid in the forming of this club. They say that George Washington, the Father of His Country, warned us not to form clubs with countries across the sea, because it would get the United States into a lot of trouble. They also say that if we join this world club, we shall lose our independence which you know from school history our fore-fathers gave up their lives to obtain from England in 1776. We would be governed, so far as our relations with other countries, by a body of men representing the countries in this club and our Government would have to agree to do whatever these men decided. When the men representing each country in this club, meet to decide matters, each country would have one vote. Every member of this club would have to agree to whatever was decided. The United States would get one vote, Belgium would get one vote, but England controls so many countries, she would get six votes. One for England herself, one for Canada, one for Australia, one for South Africa, one for New Zealand, and one for India."

"Why, Uncle Ted," said Jack, "if we only get one vote and England gets only one vote, what is the difference? Canada and Australia are far away from England?"

"That is just what I want to explain to you. These other countries, such as Canada, and Australia which I counted in as making the six votes for England are all colonies of England just like Alaska and the Philippine Islands are part of the United States. When it came time to vote, they would all vote with their Mother country and in that way they could, by their votes, make the United States share their troubles and wars whether the United States wanted to or not."

"Wouldn't that be a bad thing for the United States?" spoke up Ruth. "It would be a very bad thing for the United States to join this league or world club, and that is why, Jack, the big Senators in Washington are refusing to help make the United States join. President Wilson wants us to join no matter what it means to us but the Senate must decide because our laws say so, and most all the Senators say that we will not join this club and send our soldiers all over the world to risk their lives fighting the battles for other people."

Now it's bed-time and I am tired from my trip. Next week I shall tell you about another reason why the Senate does not like the peace treaty which our President signed in France. It is all about China and sounds like a fairy tale, with a big dragon and everything."
